SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

The Class of 1924 needs no written work to relate its great achievements. It needs no glowing words to eulogize its character. It demands no herald to proclaim its honor and dignity. But it is altogether fitting to review the most noteworthy events in the history of this illustrious class.

In September, nineteen hundred and twenty, we, thirty-four strong, entered the halls of old G. R. H. S. With ideals high and vision clear, we set ourselves to the pleasant task of securing a high school education. Our high school infancy was characterized by hard study for we were too bashful to mix much with our upper classmen.

After a recess of three months, we resumed our school work as Sophomores. Climbing the educational ladder proved too great an effort for many of our classmates. One by one they 'let all holts loose' and dropped from our midst. Although our ranks were considerably thinned, we retained our courage and looked upon our classmates as one sage upon another, saying, 'There are still many of us. We shall do great things.' This year we took an active part in all the activities of the school. Norma Souders, Garnet Manor, Helen Long and Mary Carr, Dale Huffman and Paul Huffman represented our class on the varsity basketball teams.

In our Junior year, came many hardships, toils and pleasures. We organized in the beginning of the year with Dale Huffman, president; Mary Carr, secretary; and Paul Huffman, treasurer. Nine of our number found their places on the athletic teams and we were honored by having the captain of the boys team chosen from our class. Several parties were held during the year but the crowning social event was the Junior-Senior banquet given at the Rapids Hotel on Wednesday evening, May 2.

After another enjoyable vacation, we again took up our school work, but this time as Seniors. At our first meeting we elected the following officers: Dale Huffman, president; Mary Carr, vice president; Fordyce Hutchinson, secretary and Norma Souders, treasurer. We are now a band of twenty-three members grouped together to share our school laurels. Four of the members of our class, namely: Garnet Manor, Norma Souders, Fordyce Hutchinson and Paul Huffman have journeyed throughout their routine of school together, beginning in the year 1911 under Miss Simpson.

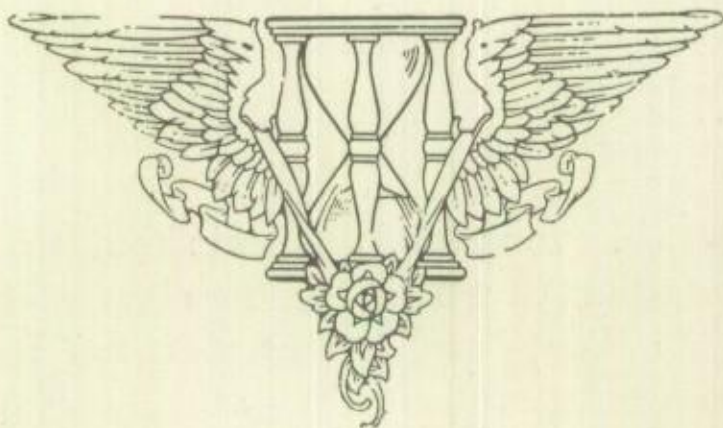

The most notable achievement of the Class was the publication of a high school annual. We earnestly hope that the publication of the "Orange and Black" will be continued by the succeeding classes of our school.

We are now leaving the school life to enter life's school. Our high school days have passed, but they shall ever be a lifelong treasure to us.

Lives of Seniors all remind us,
We can make some repairs,
And, departing, leave behind us
Foot-prints on the High school stairs.

Foot-prints that perhaps will be
In the years that are to come,
Useful for some to see
When we are dead and gone.

Let us, then, get up and dust
With a heart for any fate,
Get to school on time or bust,
Never then again be late

CLASS PROPHECY

In the year 1924, we, the Senior Class of Grand Rapids High School, 'set sail in the stream of Life.' Each of us set forth to conquer the great problems of life.

In the following years, we find each of the twenty-three members engaged in an occupation of some kind. I, being a salesman of the Curtis Publishing company, have occasion to do much travelling. One day while in the city of Weston, I took lunch at a neat appearing restaurant. When I entered I was surprised to find Bessie Jeffers and Lerhetta Wagler. In the course of my conversation with them I learned that, after leaving school, they had remained at home nearly a year and then decided that they would make their way in the world. They also told me that Fred Yawberg was now an engineer on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. That was not so much of a surprise because Fred had always displayed mechanical ability while in school. I left Miss Jeffers and Miss Wagler wishing them success in the future and hoping to see them again.

As the train pulled into the station, I noticed a familiar face in the cab, and I naturally thought of Fred. I did not get to speak to him and I am not certain that he recognized me, but the way that train travelled and the way he took those curves, I concluded that he did and that he was trying to get even with me for the tumbles we had in our school days. I arrived in Toledo somewhat worse for the ride.

I immediately went to one of the leading hotels where I signed for a room. When the bell boy approached me, I was nearly knocked off my feet, for I recognized one of my old school mates, namely Ralph Schultz. He ushered me to my room where we had a talk of old times.

Ralph told me he had come to the city as soon as he left school. I congratulated him on his position and suggested that thru hard labor and a little sticktoitiveness, he might possibly get promoted to 'floorwalker.'

As I passed down the street, a large sign attracted my attention. It read: "Miller and Long, Beauty Parlor." The name "Miller and Long" immediately reminded me of my old school friends, Florence Miller and Helen Long. Out of curiosity I entered their place of business and recognized Florence and Helen. As they were very busy I took only a few moments of their time. I was pleased to hear that they were succeeding so well in their work. Wishing them success in the future, I took my leave.

Intending to send my company a check, I entered the Second National Bank. As I walked toward the booth, I noticed a sign on the door, L. E. Johnston, Pres. After much delay and difficulty, I was permitted to enter Mr. Johnston's office. Here I found Laird seated in a comfortable chair, taking things easy. Laird was always fond of handling big money, so I wasn't surprised to see him working in a bank. As we talked over old times, he told me that he had worked with the Grand Rapids Banking Company about four years and was then offered a position as teller in the bank where he is now employed. As we recalled our old schoolmates I was surprised to hear that Jack Biggins and Cleo Heising had gone into partnership. They direct one of the largest wholesale houses in the city of Toledo. It was a greater surprise when Laird told me that both of them were married. As Jack and Cleo were always bashful and quiet fellows in school, their marriage was quite a puzzle to me. They had each married a classmate, Jack marrying Frances Sheely and Cleo marrying Fordyce Hutchinson. They were both married the same year of their graduation. As 1924 was leap year, maybe this explains their marriage.

As I wished to catch the next train for Cleveland, I was forced to leave. I told Laid to pay by respects to Mr. and Mrs. Jack Biggins and Mr. and Mrs. Cleo Heising.

While waiting at the Union Depot for my train, I heard a familiar voice. Upon looking around, who was I to see? No one but my old chum Ted Hummel, who now holds the position of "train crier." How he ever secured this position is beyond me, because he could never talk above a whisper in class. Our talk was just getting interesting when my train arrived and I was forced to leave.

Upon arriving in Cleveland, I decided to walk around awhile before going to West Tech High School where I had an appointment. As I strolled thru one of the busy streets of Cleveland, my eyes fell upon a large crowd assembled on the side of the street. I recognized a familiar face, and it was none other than Norma Souders. By asking a member of the crowd, I was able to find out that she was the head of the Salvation Army of this city and was there lecturing on the "Relief of the Foreign Nations." Norma was very capable of filling that position as she always took pleasure in helping others.

It was now past time for my appointment so I hurriedly made my way to West Tech High School. I had looked forward to this appointment with a great deal of pleasure as I was to interview another of my old classmates, Miss Lieuceil Drake. She is now instructor in Foreign Languages in this school. My joy was increased, for when I entered I met the English teacher, Miss Elizabeth Evans. We three had a friendly talk together and called to mind many pleasant and trying times spent together.

One day in the following week, as I was going down one of the main streets in the city of Pittsburgh, I saw a man picking himself up off the street just ahead of me. As I drew nearer, who do you suppose I recognized? Charley Bowser. Approaching Charley I inquired of his misfortune. He replied that a couple of fellows had tried to get rough with him and he guessed he had gotten the worst of it. I finally coaxed him to go back into the building from which he had been thrown. As I entered I noticed a sign on the window. "Contractors, Complete Builders." On the inside I saw a man bending over a large table drawing something. Coming a little nearer I recognized the skill of Raymond Henning. The skill which he displayed in drawing blue prints was similar to that he used in the days when we got exposed to geometry. Over in another corner I saw Dale Huffman, evidently doing nothing. This is the way he did in the days when we studied geometry. Getting into a conversation with these fellows, I found that they are "Complete Builders" because Ray draws the blue prints, Dale does the construction and Charley does the common labor, making these the "three in one" gang. They informed me that they were very experienced and had been in business about four years, and added that they hadn't had a contract as yet. I left these fellows in the same mood as I had hound them. It is very doubtful whether a stick of dynamite would change their mood even though it would change their position.

As I entered the street again I was attracted by a newsboy calling "Extra." The headline of the paper read, "Salesgirl Falls Heir to Large Estate." Reading the article a little further, I learned that Miss Opal Crosby, salesgirl of Peoples Furnishing company had come into possession of a $1,000,000 fortune. How it happened remains a mystery, because Opal just disappeared and no one has ever heard from her since. The question is whether she will be able to spend all that money. She might share it with the rest of us. What do you say, Seniors?

As I call to mind the twenty-three members of the Class of 1924, I think of three members of whom I have not been able to account. Let us imagine ourselves back along the banks of the old Maumee. There we shall see two maidens, Miss Garnet Manor and Miss Mary Carr. Miss Manor and Miss Carr, disappointed in love, resolved to find happiness in each other's companionship. They selected the banks of the old Maumee as the site of their beautiful residence. Here we find them living in a secluded, adventuresome, yet happy life.

The last member of the Class of '24, we find much more fortunate. We see our classmate, Miss Mae Heyman, now the housewife of a very rich farmer. She seems very happy, as it is said she sings continually during the performance of her household duties.

As I walked to my hotel that evening, I thought of our class motto, "We launch tonight, where shall we anchor?" It is pleasing to know that all of the class have anchored, although some of us have not anchored in a very good harbor, yet you will always find the members of the class of twenty and four ever striving onward and upward toward the attainment of higher goals.

TO OURSELVES

We all think lots of our teachers
And we think they love us too,
For they never, never scold us
For anything we do.

Do they?

Mr. Guyer thought our Civics class
Was the best he ever saw,
We were all so very very bright
That he never had to jaw.

Did he?

Mr. Brown just loves our chemistry class
As our experiments are the best,
And we never get below one hundred
In the hardest kind of a test.

Do we?

Mr. Townsend thinks his "Ag" class
Is the brightest every day,
For he always gives them credit
For anything they say.

Doesn't he?

Mr. Brown likes our History class
He thinks we're all so wise,
Why, he never asks a question
But what some one doesn't rise.

Don't they?

Miss Breese thinks we're clever in Latin
We can read Virgil by the page,
And we never miss constructions
Only, once in 'bout' an age.

Do we?

We were industrious Seniors
And never looked away from work
No matter how hard our lessons,
We were never known to shirk.

Were we?

JUNIOR CLASS HISTORY

Grand Rapids High School has never before enjoyed a more remarkable wideawake bunch of pupils than those composing the present Junior Class. As a record of exceptional activity, the history of the class can not easily be surpassed.

The Class of '25 was organized September 20, 1923. It was composed of twenty-three members. The officers elected at this meeting were as follows: President, Floyd Lyle; Vice President, Bernard Katon; Secretary, Helen Shaffner; Treasurer, Bessie Crosby.

Immediately after organization the class began to furnish chapel programs and continued to do so throughout the year. Four very lively parties were held under the supervision of this class. A Junior-Senior party was held at the school house October 12, 1923. Class parties were held at Lyle's, Shaffner's and Gallagher's. On November 23, '23, February 19, '24, and March 20, '24.

The Class of '25 carries an enviable reputation in athletics. Of the nine boys in the class, four were accepted on High School teams. Two girls from the class played on the girls team, and a Junior girl, Gladys Gill, has the distinction of being one of the All-Star girl players furnished by G. R. H. S.

On March 7 the annual Inter-Class Basket Ball tournament was held. For the second time in two years, the class of '25 won the championship. Ortez Gallagher, Floyd Lyle, Guy Bachman, John Fuller, Howard Biggins, and Cloyce Carr composed the winning team.

The Junior Class play, "Am I intruding?" was very successfully presented at the Town Hall on January 2, '24. Since some in the audience pronounced it "the best rendered play given in many years" it was presented again with success at McClure, Ohio, January 15, '24. The two productions netted the class $45 to be used for the Annual Junior-Senior Banquet. Mr. Guyer directed our play. The playing caste was as follows:

Gerald Mays, Jerry from Sage Creek	Elmer Bowers
Earnest Rathburn, Jane's Secretary	Guy Bachman
Mrs. Hastings, Housekeeper	Helen Shaffner
Blair Hoover, Adventurer	Cloyce Carr
Marjorie Vare, Elder Daughter	Bessie Crosby
Dickie Waldron, Romanticist	Floyd Lyle
Mona, The Maid	Mae Heyman
Horace Vare, Father	Ortez Gallagher
Violet Vare, Youngest Daughter	Gladys Gill
Peter, Devoted to Vi	John Fuller
Dora, Friend of Vi's	Elizabeth Croninger
Jane, Vare's Niece	Ethel Strayer

During January we decided that such a wonderful class should have distinct identification marks. A beautifully designed class pin was selected and the members of the class bought pins. Cerise and green are the official class colors.

Throughout our school life we have endeavored to keep in mind and live up to our motto. In it are embodied three of the principles that lead to success. They are: Self-confidence, Originality and Devotion to Duty. Our motto is: "Better classes than ours have existed, but we doubt it."

SOPHOMORE CLASS HISTORY

The school year of 1923-24 brought many changes for Grand Rapids High School and with it an upright, unselfish, Sophomore class. Our number has diminished since we were Freshmen yet we are not in the least discouraged for although we are small, we beat them all.

Our class was organized September 5, 1923. We elected the following officers: President, Mabel Jeffers; Vice President, Howard Yawberg. Our class chose the motto: "Fortune Favors the Brave."

The class furnishes Chapel programs every fourth week. We have always tried to feature a good, interesting program.

Several of our boys, Ralph Hummel, Charles Regal, and Howard Yawberg, represented our class on the high school basket ball teams. These boys, with Russel Johnston, Ralph Miller, and Raymond Heising participated in the annual Inter-class Basket Ball tournament.

As a class we have tried to be a credit to our beloved high school. We are striving to do well, so that in the years to come, we can look back upon our years in school as the happiest in our lives.

FRESHMEN CLASS HISTORY

Most of us reached for our grade cards with trembling hands. And then the joy to find that we had passed. We were actually going to be in High School next year!

Vacation passed quickly.

With the beginning of school came fear and apprehension.

"What would High School be like?" How should we act?" "Would our studies be very difficult?" "Would we be initiated?" "If so, How?"

Of course, like all other Freshmen classes we felt a little green at first and didn't know where to go. We were, however, directed by our teachers.

The first few days of school we joined lustily in the well-known chorus, "I am going to study this year." Parental hearts were filled with hope but our long-suffering teachers listened sadly. Well they knew how easy it was for us to say, "I will study" and how few of us would keep our resolution.

With arms book-laden we hurried into the classroom. We were all excited. There were no regular lessons on the first day. Our teacher, Miss Breese, simply asked questions at random. Some of which follow:

Miss Breese: "Name something of importance that did not exist a hundred years ago."

Elizabeth Brown: "Me!"

"Pretty Soft," said Leo Miller, as he scratched his head.

Teacher—"Robert Manor, name a collective noun."

Robert: "A vacuum cleaner."

Teacher: "What did Columbus prove by standing an egg on end?"

John Thomas: "That eggs were cheap enough to be handled carelessly."

Here Donald Katon broke in with a bit of his favorite verse:

"Onward, move onward, O time in thy flight,
May the bell ring before I recite."
Just then the bell did ring.

Later the class officers were elected: President, John Thomas; Secretary Margaret Laskey.

We have had two Freshmen parties, one at the home of Ruth Soash and the other at Margaret Laskey's. We were also entertained early in the school year by the seventh and eighth grades. All present at these parties enjoyed themselves immensely.

The girls of our class have all been "angelic" in their behavior, and the boys have been "models of propriety?"

A BIGGER AND BETTER GRAND RAPIDS HIGH SCHOOL

Everyone is familiar with the schools and their work. We recognize, in a general way, the necessity and importance of education, and yet we are likely to lose sight of the fact, that the schools of a community are the source and foundation of the community's progress. The relation of school and community is best understood through the application of two great principles or laws. First, the mathematical law that the whole is equal to the sum of all its parts, and second, the physical law that a stream can rise no higher than its source. A community, in the general civic sense, is a group of citizens, or according to the mathematical law, the sum of the citizens who compose it.

The character of a community—whether it be progressive or backward, prosperous or poor, intelligent or ignorant, is determined largely by the calibre of its citizenship. It is obvious that any agency in the community which makes the citizenship better informed, more intelligent, and more progressive is laying the foundation of community betterment. This work of developing a higher type of citizenship is the aim and purpose for which schools are conducted. Thus, a better school in Grand Rapids would be the fountain head of a better citizenship in Grand Rapids.

God has been generous in his gifts of nature. On every hand we see evidences of His generosity. The broad fields, fertile valleys and picturesque scenery should inspire us to do our best. In gratitude for these great gifts we should strive to progress. Continual and perpetual progress is the debt we owe.

The underlying principle taught by our school, in its effort to promote progress, is civic responsibility. The obligation of the individual citizen to put forth his best efforts for civic betterment, is deeply impressed upon every pupil. They are made to feel a personal responsibility for the conditions in this community. Our school seeks to define the standards of citizenship. They comprise the highest ideals of patriotism, devotion, and service. But the work of our school does not end with the placing of these ideals before its students. It goes further. It strives to develop the student to the point where he is able to assume responsibility according to the standards he has been taught.

The duties imposed upon the citizens and patrons of the Grand Rapids schools call for sacrifice of the same degree that parents manifest in securing what is best for their children. The perpetuation of our school becomes a sacred duty. All that our forefathers fought for—lived for—died for, was just that, a bigger, a better, a higher citizenship and this must come thru the school.

Let not Grand Rapids degenerate in her community spirit, but may she be awake to the crying need of the hour.—A bigger, better Grand Rapids High school. Bigger that every child of school age may be properly cared for—better—that they may be equipped to cope with the competition and problems of life.

It is the earnest wish of the Class of 1924 that we can have a bigger and better High School. Wise indeed, is our community if it supports such a program, and well too, for it will be guaranteeing the progress and prosperity of its institutions.

MUSIC

Music should be the all-important factor of entertainment in any high school. Realizing this, Mr. Guyer has always encouraged all efforts towards the introduction of wholesome music in Grand Rapids High School.

Early in the year, he placed before the student body, a plan for chapel programs to be held twice a week, on Tuesdays and Fridays. Each of the four classes in High School was placed in charge of the programs in its turn. The students displayed wonderful interest in the project and keen rivalry for good programs was shown among the classes.

A High School orchestra was organized and took part in several programs. Members of the orchestra were: Fordyce Hutchinson, Norma Souders, Elizabeth Evans, and Charles Regal. A male quartette, consisting of Mr. Guyer, Mr. Thomas, Charles Regal and Ray Henning, favored us with some charming selections.

Mabel Jeffers, Bessie Jeffers, Silva Backus and Elizabeth Evans, some of our talented singers, were kind enough to entertain at chapel services at various times. Charles Regal, John Fuller, Winifred Guyer, Fordyce Hutchinson, and Helen Shaffner furnished us with many pleasing piano selections.

These, in a musical way, and others, in a literary way, made the chapel services a constant source of interest and inspiration. Interest has become so great that, instead of more questionable ways of passing time, the students now surround the piano at intermissions and just sing, sing, sing.

Early in 1924 a High School Glee Club was organized under the direction and instruction of Mrs. Dunipace. The club consists of thirty "peppy" members and has sung at several of the important school functions. This was setting a precedent at Grand Rapids High School, and we hope interest in the art does not flag in succeeding years for after all one's education is never complete without a knowledge and appreciation of music.

THE LYCEUM COURSE

Each year the High School through its Senior Class makes possible a Lyceum Entertaining course for the community. This class assumes the responsibility for carrying into successful execution the detail work required in the presentation of such a course. The Lyceum program for this year included four splendid attractions.

On Friday evening(December 21, 1923, the Liberty Belles Company opened our course with a delightful program of music, readings and impersonations. Many pronounced this company the best that had yet appeared in our town.

The second number of the course was presented on the evening of January 16, 1924 by the Hendrys Company. Character sketches of Old Men, Negroes, Irishmen and Sailors were some of the impersonation features. Musical numbers of various kinds added materially to the success of their program.

The outstanding feature of the entire course was the home talent play presented on the evening of March 14, 1924. Under the direction of Mr. Townsend, the Senior Class presented, "When A Girl Loves." It was well given and well received. The caste of characters included:

Ethel Banks, the Niece	Elizabeth Evans
Harriet Banks, the Aunt	Opal Crosby
Dorothy Banks, the Daughter	Bessie Jeffers
Dick Wayburn, the Coward	Charles Bowser
Jerry Mayer Banks, the Uncle	Laird Johnston
Phil Osborne, the Soldier	Fred Yawberg
John Turkey-legs, the Indian	Ralph Schultz
Rev. Hyde, the Minister	Cleo Heising
Johnny Banks, the Nephew and Mr. Woods.....	Jack Biggins

The closing number of the course was given on the evening of April 4, 1924. Paul "Sunshine" Dietrick, Community Lecturer, gave a splendid humorous and entertaining address.

BASKET BALL

Although handicapped by a small number of boys from which to choose, Grand Rapids High School made an exceptionally good showing in basket ball. Only sixteen men turned out for basket ball this year, but from this number Coach Guyer selected and trained a team very fit to defend G. R.'s reputation.

The training season began November 12. Stiff practices were held two and three times a week. Late in November the regular team was selected—Forwards, Charles Bowser, Paul Huffman and Floyd Lyle; Center, Dale Huffman; Guards, Raymond Henning, Ted Hummel and Ralph Hummel.

This team captured the championship of the West Wood county league, composed of Milton Center, Weston, Haskins, Tontogany and Grand Rapids. Of the twenty-three games played it won twenty. This surely is an exceptional record when one considers the hard work, stringent training and fine sense of duty and sportmanship which it implies.

PAUL HUFFMAN, Captain of this year's squad, has played three seasons with the varsity team. He is undoubtedly the most steady man on the team and every one looks to "Huffy" to perform in pinches and keep the team on its toes. He made the County All-Star teams of '23 and '24.

CHARLES BOWSER, playing his first year on the varsity, proved a very valuable man at the other forward position. He did the most scoring during the season and always furnished a thrill with his sensational shooting. As proof, call to mind the Woodville game, where our sturdy athlete netted twelve points in two minutes.

DALE HUFFMAN, one of the finest centers in the country, has played four years on the Varsity. His sensational dribbling and aggressive spirit are very evident in every contest. He was an "All-Star," in '23 but was unable to participate in the '24 Tourney. "Cap" is the basket ball hero of the community.

RAYMOND HENNING, a second year man, was one of the best guards that ever performed on the old hard-wood court. "Brown" is also a very fast floor man and proved himself a very valuable asset to the team.

TED HUMMEL, a second year man, is in every way equal to his partner. He is a guard of exceptional ability. The forwards who penetrate thru his defense know that they have been some place.

RALPH HUMMEL and FLOYD LYLE, the subs, were, of course, the "goats." But nevertheless, they consider it an honor to have been permitted to wear the Orange and Black with such illustrious teammates.

Grand Rapids is proud of her Varsity team, but the club they rave about, love and worship, is the "wrecking crew." This squad was outweighed in every contest of the season—at times playing teams equal in size to those played by the Varsity. As a record of exceptional defense, witness the last game with the Lake Township boys. It was played three overtime periods, and the final score was 0-0. We are pleased to list the names of the distinguished crew. They are Guy Bachman, Elmer Bowers, John Fuller, Charles Regal, Howard Yawberg, Ralph Schultz and Cloyce Carr.

BASEBALL

On October 25, 1923 Grand Rapids High School ended a successful baseball season. Although the team got away to a poor start, it played splendidly and made a good showing during the remainder of the season. The regular line-up follows.

Dale Huffman	Catch
Earl Carter	Pitch
Ralph Schultz	Pitch and Left Field
Charles Bowser	First Base
Ray Henning	Second Base
Howard Yawberg	Third Base
Floyd Lyle	Short Stop
Paul Huffman	Center Field
John Fuller	Right Field
Ted Hummel	Utility
Cloyce Carr	Utility

At Milton September 21.

Grand Rapids opened the season at Milton on a very muddy diamond. In a slow and uninteresting game, the local boys were forced to accept the small end of a 4 to 6 score.

At Whitehouse September 28.

This game was played on the opponents diamond on a fine day. Both teams fought fiercely but the Grand Rapids' boys triumphed 11-10. The ability of a new pitcher, Earl Carter, was first brought out in this contest.

County Champions at Grand Rapids October 8.

On this date Grand Rapids played her most dangerous rival, Weston, at Grand Rapids. Although Weston won the County Base Ball Championship, the Grand Rapids squad fought them to a score of 7-8, and lost nobly.

At Grand Rapids October 12.

This, the fourth game of the season, was played on the local diamond with Whitehouse high school. Whitehouse was unable to avenge her former defeat and lost again 2-3.

At Grand Rapids October 23.

Haskins invaded Grand Rapids with noble intentions but was unable to deliver the goods. Rapids was again victorious, score 5-6. This was one of the most bitterly fought games of the season.

At Tontogany October 25.

This, the last game, was a very suitable one with which to close the season. Grand Rapids went to Tontogany and decisively defeated that strong team 6-0. Due to the sensational catches of Ralph Schultz and the commendable pitching of young Carter, only two Togany men saw first base. Charles Bowser also starred at first base "with a stiff neck."

GIRL'S BASKET BALL

The Grand Rapids High School girls team has a fine record this year. Of the twenty-three games played they won 17. Their total scores were 695 points to their opponents 328. Mr. Harold L. Townsend selected and coached the team. The lineup follows: Forwards, Helen Long, Garnet Manor, Norma Souders, Frances Evans and Florence Miller; Center, Mary Carr; Guards, Gladys Gill, Elizabeth Croninger, Mae Heyman and Bernice Gill.

GLADYS GILL, Captain, has played three years. She is an exceptionally fast guard and has a fine sense of sportsmanship. Because of these two traits, "Billy" has been chosen on the County All-Star team for the past two years.

MARY CARR, a veteran of four Varsity squads, is one of the finest centers in the country. "Mickey's" ever-smiling countenance is one of the admiring features of every game.

GARNET MANOR, who has played three years with the Varsity, is the high point-scoring forward. She is a "sure-shot" and like "Huffy" on the boy's squad, can always be relied upon for a basket when most needed. "Ben" is also a county All-Star member.

HELEN LONG, the other regular forward, has played three years. She is noted for her long shots and for her steady, calculating way of making every free throw count. "Button" is another of the County All-Star players.

NORMA SOUDERS, the third forward or running center, has played three years on the Varsity. She gets the ball to her teammates if at all possible, and it is always possible with our "Dutch."

ELIZABETH CRONINGER, another three-year player, does her bit at G. R.'s defense. When an opposing player looks "pretty tough," they always put "Pat" against her.

MAE HEYMAN, the third member of G. R.'s goal defenders, has also played three years. When the forward is too swift for Mae to catch, she is some speedy.

FRANCES EVANS, another fast forward, has made the Varsity in her Freshman year. It may be well to add that no one ever "runs over" Frances.

BERNICE GILL, our sturdy guard, has also the distinction of making the Varsity in her initial year. She is a really great little guard and bids fair to follow in the footsteps of her illustrious sisters, Marguerite, Marie and Gladys.

FLORENCE MILLER, another first year player, played guard in several contests and believe me she guarded. The old saying, "She's little but she's mighty" certainly applies to "Flo."

THE PARENT-TEACHER ASSOCIATION

One of the most interesting features of school work this year was the society for our parents and teachers. This organization was a big factor in contributing to the success of our school. It was largely thru this association that we were able to begin our School Ground Beautification project.

The first meeting of the Association was held October 2, 1923. At that time the following officers were elected: President, Mrs. H. D. Evans; Vice President, Mrs. Belle Conrad; Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. Zaidee Cummers. A Permanent Program Committee was selected, consisting of the officers of the association and two additional members, Mr. Charles Lamson and Mr. R. E. Croninger.

Because of extreme cold weather and much illness in the community, no meetings were held during the months of December and January. The February meeting night found us all back on the job as strong as ever. Dr. C. C. Kohl, of Bowling Green delivered the address at our February meeting. His theme was "Community Co-operation in the Educative Process." We feel absolutely sure that some of the things brought to our attention were so true and simple, yet so fundamental, that they will remain with us the rest of our lives.

At our final meeting we summed up the events of the year and found out how well the parents and teachers had become acquainted. We pledged ourselves to the cause of betterment in the association for 1925.

HOME ECONOMICS DEPARTMENT

Early in October 1923, the Board of Education installed our Home Economics Department. It is thoroughly equipped with the most modern utensils necessary for the work.

This course teaches the value of foods and how to prepare them. Five fifty-five minute periods a week are spent in the discussion of the text, while four forty-five minutes periods per week are devoted to actual cooking practice.

There are twenty-one girls enrolled in this department. Our limited space and equipment prevent more from enrolling in the course. It is hoped that greater opportunities may become available in this work as it fills a unique place in our High School program.

The Agriculture boys gave us an opportunity to apply what we had learned when they secured us to prepare and serve the food for their first Annual Parent and Son Banquet. They pronounced it a real success in every way.

Filled with ambition and enthusiasm, and aided by the never ceasing efforts of our instructor, Miss Heiby, the class has not only thoroughly enjoyed the course, but has also acquired an adequate knowledge of the art of cooking.

'THE SMITH-HUGHES' DEPARTMENT

Grand Rapids High School can be proud of the fact that it is one of the one hundred and thirty-four schools in the state of Ohio having a Smith-Hughes Vocational Agriculture Department. Mr. Harold L. Townsend is the instructor in this work and spends the entire year in his various duties.

Early in the fall the agriculture classes took up a detailed study of soils and fertility. Much of their knowledge was gained first hand thru field trips. Marketing, Farm Management, Farm Accounting and Farm Organizations are a few of the subjects studied during the year. Men Experienced in these lines lectured to the classes at various times. Among those who spoke to the students were R. E. Croninger, Mr. C. C. Lang and Dr. De Tray. In addition to their regular class room work, each boy in the department is required to successfully complete an agricultural project of some kind. These projects are directed and supervised by the instructor during the summer months.

The Agriculture boys took a very active part in the School ground beautification project. They were organized into squads under leaders and assigned definite work. Maps were made of the proposed changes, then actual work began. Dirt was hauled, sod was cut and placed, shrubs were set out, and the yard was levelled off and seeded.

In the Tuberculosis eradication campaign conducted in the county, our boys took a leading part. They assumed the responsibility of securing signatures in Grand Rapids township. The success of their efforts is shown by the fact that 95 per cent of the farmers in this district signed the petition to have their cattle tested for tuberculosis.

A Farm Shop or manual training course is offered under the Smith-Hughes plan of instruction. The class this year has undertaken a variety of shop jobs and has become quite skilled in the important phases of farm repair and construction work. Woodwork, care and sharpening of tools, harness repairing, belt lacing, window repairing, soldering, rope splicing, staining, painting and varnishing are a few of the things Farm Shop boys must be able to do.

That the Agriculture boys took a keen interest in social affairs is shown by the splendid success they achieved in instituting their first annual Parent and Son banquet. After a delicious four-course dinner the following program was rendered.

A Lesson in English.

"You see a beautiful girl walking down the street. She is, of course, feminine. If she is singular, you are nominative. You walk across to her, changing the verbal and then become dative. If she is not objective, you become plural. You walk home together. Her mother is accusative and you become imperative. You walk in and sit down. Her little brother is an indefinite article. You talk of the future. She changes the subject. You kiss her and she becomes masculine. Her father becomes present, things are tense, and you become the past participle."

Bessie Jeffers—"The idea of your working four hours every night on that bookkeeping! I would not thing of such a thing."

Terhetta Wagler—"Neither would I. It was Mr. Brown that thought of it."

The following conversation was overheard one day while Garnet and Mary were in the assembly room.

Garnet—"Ray tried to kiss me last night but I wouldn't let him."

Mary—"Did it make him angry?"

Garnet—"Well, I should say. He said he wished he had called on you."

Kind readers in these pages
Your name may be writ—
Think it honor to be mentioned
Even though you may be hit.

If the mention does not please you
Curb your wrath we plead
Good fun cannot hurt you
Come now—let us read.

Mae Heyman singing to herself at 3 a. m.:

"My love is like a bluebird
That flies from tree to tree
For when he sees another bird
He flies away from me."

Mr. Brown, in Com. Law Class—"If a man and woman had no children, to whom would their property revert when they died?"

Florence Miller—"To their grandchildren."

Mr. Brown—"What is the Non-Intercourse Act?"

Helen Long—"I don't know."

Mr. Brown—"Well, that's wrong."

Biology Instructor—"Where do bugs go in winter?"

Floyd Lyle—"Search me."

Mary to Ray—"One cannot appreciate this davenport."

A World-Book

Fate or Destiny, a New Optimism, The Story of the Soul.

By Louis Lisemer

This book has attracted the attention of the thinkers of the colleges, the professions, the pulpit and the press. It propounds a new optimism. Many encomiums have been showered upon it at home and across seas. It has become immediately an international—a world-book.
